- Meet new friends and old and find interesting, inquisitive Cal travel companions

Traveling with you is Dr. William Tramposch. Bill graduated (Phi Beta Kappa) from UC Berkeley in 1970 where he studied English and American literature. He holds an M.A. and Ed.D. from the College of William and Mary in Virginia. Tramposch’s career has been in the heritage and museum field, having worked in leadership roles at Colonial Williamsburg, and most recently, Nantucket, Massachusetts. He was appointed Visiting Fellow, Kellogg College, Oxford University in 2000, and is a graduate of the Senior Managers Development Programme at Oxford’s Templeton College (now the Said Business School). Throughout his career he has worked with colleagues at English Heritage and the National Trust, and is a frequent visitor to Britain having walked (and kayaked) the Thames River and the Lake District with literature in mind. Tramposch is currently the Aroha Philanthropies Fellow at the American Alliance of Museums where he is facilitating conversations both in the US and abroad regarding the potentials for “creative aging” initiatives in museums.

The Cal lecturer’s participation cannot be guaranteed and is contingent on a minimum number of paying travelers.
